Antioch Police arrest armed, wanted ex-con

A call from a New Hampshire police department led to the apprehension and the arrest, by the Antioch Police Dept. of an ex-convict, wanted on several felony charges.

The Merrimac, New Hampshire, Police Dept. informed Lt. Tom Fisher of the Antioch Police Dept., that a 16-year-old runaway from New Hampshire had called them from a phone booth in Antioch because he was frightened and in trouble.

Fisher and Officer Ron Roth found the frightened teen in a phone booth near Antioch Auto Parts on Rte. 173.

The youth told the police that he and a 15-year-old boy had left New Hampshire in the company of Philip Jones, 33, from Fox Lake.

The youth said that Jones had forced the two boys into sexual acts at gun point in a motel in Pennsylvania. He then took the policemen to a room at the Sunset Motel where they found the 15-year-old. Jones had left the motel.

The police went to the Squire Restaurant nearby and asked if a man of Jones' description, wearing a black leather jacket, had been there. They were told he had made a phone call for a cab from the restaurant.

A check with the cab company showed a record of the call but he had not been picked up yet.

The police were searching the school buses parked behind the restaurant when the 16-year-old said he thought that a man, dressed in a heavy sweater with a scarf around his head, leaving the rear of the restaurant, was Jones.

The squad followed Jones, who was on foot with both hands in his pockets, down Rte. 83. In the area of the Sequoit Apartments, Fisher and Roth stopped the squad, drew their guns and repeatedly told the man to lay face forward on the ground, hands and feet apart.

When the man finally followed these orders the police found a loaded, cocked, nine millimeter automatic pistol in his pocket, holding 13 bullets, plus another 13 bullet cartridge.

The man, later identified as Jones, said he did not fire at the police because the driveway he was standing in was icy and he knew it would be hard to run to get away.

Jones admitted the sexual assault on the boys in Pennsylvania under questioning, also a Sunday, Feb. 5 armed robbery of a gas station in Wheeling, another armed robbery of a gas station in Arlington Heights, and an armed robbery in Pennsylvania, which the police could not verify.

Jones, who attempted an escape from a Florida prison chain gang and is wanted for parole violation, was charged by the Antioch Police with unlawful use of a weapon, being a felon in possession of fire arms.

Jones is being held in Lake County jail under $50,000 bond on that charge and $75,000 bond on a warrant from Wheeling for armed robbery.

While Jones was being questioned by nine police agencies at the Antioch Police Dept., he asked to call the Fox Lake Police Dept.

He told Fox Lake Police Chief Robert Trinski that there were two pipe bombs in the home of his parents in Fox Lake that he was afraid would explode.

Jones had reportedly planned to use the bombs for retribution against two men he had had altercations with in McHenry.

Trinski and Fox Lake Det. Sgt. Jim Busch found two, eight inch long pipe bombs, filled with black powder, fused and ready to go, in Jones' parents' home.

Trinski defused the bombs on the premises.

Other charges are expected to be filed against Jones who has spent 18 of his 33 years in prison.

Local Chamber dons new look

by GLORIA DAVIS

The new officers and board of directors of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce will officially take office at the annual installation dinner-dance, on Saturday, Feb. 18.

According to incoming Chamber President Don Marski, more than the Chamber leadership will change in 1984.

The familiar face of Dixie Sparks, former executive secretary of the Chamber, will no longer be around at Chamber doings, or in the new Chamber office on Hillside Dr.

According to Marski, the dispensing of a full-time secretary is a necessary financial cutback being made by the Chamber.

Sparks chose to leave the Chamber's employ instead of accepting a reduction in hours and pay.

The Chamber will have a part-time person replacing Sparks. Presently the incoming board members are keeping track of Chamber business at the new office which was moved into over a week ago.

Marski said that the board had decided that they would like to see Chamber funds funneled back into the community and were presently in the process of deciding ways to do this.

The new board is now in the process of setting up goals and plans for the Chamber for 1984.

Another of Marski's goals is to renew Chamber enthusiasm and interest which reportedly had been lagging in the last few years.

The retail committee is expected to inject new life into annual Chamber functions such as "Maxwell St. Days" and the summer art fair.

Marski said that he also expects to see the return of such defunct old moneymakers as "Moonlight Madness."

Ideas for new money making functions will also be given much attention by the new Chamber regime.

Marski added that the Chamber expected to work with Mayor Ray Toft's new committee on the revitalization of Main St.

Fostering a new interest in the financial and business problems of its members, had Marski saying, "Members should be able to come to the Chamber to talk over their individual business problems and get any help that would be possible for the Chamber to give."

Grass Lake, Lotus eye school merger

by GLORIA DAVIS

The Lotus School Board has contacted the Board of Education of Grass Lake School concerning the possible merger of the two schools.

At a meeting in Lake County School Supt. Bill Thompson's office, on Jan. 25, representatives of both school boards met with Dean Mack, who is in charge of school reorganizations, and other officials, to discuss requirements for such a merger and the legal side of such a move.

According to Grass Lake School Supt. Richard Hogan, the State of Illinois has been recommending school mergers in cases where schools are suffering financial problems brought on by the cuts in state aids and the decrease of enrollment.

Hogan plans to appear in front of the Grass Lake Board of Education with 13 pages of questions dealing with the possibility of the merger at a meeting, on Tuesday, Feb. 14.

He added that he thought there would be more concrete things to report on the matter after this meeting.

Much time is needed to study the pros and cons of the situation, and then any decision made by both schools will have to go to the school district electors via public meetings before any real moves can be made concerning the possible merger.

"This will be a very long range thing if both schools decide to go with the merger," he said, explaining that no question on school reorganization can be dealt with before July 1 of any year.

With the ballot for this year's election on March 20 already set, it is too late to get a referendum of any kind on it to be acted on by this July.

'Legal entanglements' block Chain referendum

by ROGER RUTHHART
Managing Editor

A series of "frustrating legal entanglements" have resulted in the postponement of a referendum to form the proposed Chain O' Lakes-Fox River Waterway Management Agency.

State Sen. Jack Schaeffer (R-Cary), author of the legislation that provided for the referendum, and if approved, subsequent formation of the agency, said the delay will probably not affect the ultimate effective date of the agency.

Voters in portions of Lake and McHenry counties adjacent to the Chain were to vote March 20 on the formation of the new agency and then, if approved, elect a board for the agency at the November general election.

Schaeffer said he will be introducing an amendment to the law, allowing the referendum and election of the board to be held on November.

Schaeffer explained that the problem with the legislation was that the law was to go into affect July 1. "Although it was reviewed by legal staff and no one saw any problems with it, it was later determined that you can't mandate a primary in March with a law that takes affect on July 1," said Schaeffer.

Schaeffer said that Senate President Phil Rock (D-Oak Park) and senate leadership could have pushed legislation through to eliminate the problem. "I truthfully had some lingering hope that we could salvage it this week, but apparently they have some things they want to delay until after the primary election, so they've pushed everything to the back burner."

"I'm a little frustrated at this point," Schaeffer said. "With $250,000 in legal talent you'd think we'd be able to avoid things like this."

The senator said that the Chain O'Lakes-Fox River Commission met and has pretty much agreed that legislation will be introduced to amend the law to provide for presentation of the referendum and election of the board at the same time, next November.

"We've had a hard time getting a quorum, but I'll talk to some of the other members. It (the proposed agency) would still be viable for the 1985 boating season if approved in November," said Schaeffer.

Schaeffer said he was aware of opposition being presented "by Pete Jakstas at the Mineola (Marina, Fox Lake) and some of the others. Maybe this will give us a chance to see if they can propose any alternatives. My gut feeling is that they're just against everything," Schaeffer said.

If the referendum is approved, it would allow for the creation of an agency that would not have the power to impose taxes, but would have the power to charge user fees for recreational and commercial users of the Chain-Fox River waterway from the Wisconsin State Line to the Algonquin dam.

A seven member board would oversee the actions of the agency, with three members from McHenry County and three from Lake, with the chairman elected at large.

Under the present formula for the agency, at least 75 percent of the user fees would have to be spent on projects designed to improve the waterway and adjacent areas, with the remaining monies allotted for administration of the agency.

Those voting on the question would be residents of Antioch, Wauconda and Grant townships, portions of Lake Villa, Avon and Cuba in Lake County, and residents of Burton township and portions of Nunda, McHenry and Algonquin townships in McHenry County.

Ask Dr. Sven

by Robert T. Sven B.S.D.D.S.

PREMATURE PERMANENT TEETH

Question:
Do permanent teeth ever come through a child's gums before the first teeth are gone?

Answer:
Once in a while, adult teeth will come through the gums earlier than expected and create a temporary second row of teeth in a child's mouth. This happens more often in the lower jaw. If the baby teeth are already sufficiently loose, they probably can be removed at home; if not, the services of a professional should be obtained.

When a double row of teeth pops through in the upper jaw, see a dentist right away, as this may be a more complicated condition. Once the baby teeth have been removed, the new adult teeth should move into proper alignment via the normal action of tongue and/or cheek muscles.

The Antioch Police arrested two men on Thursday, Feb. 9, for the residential burglary of a Joanna Court apartment.

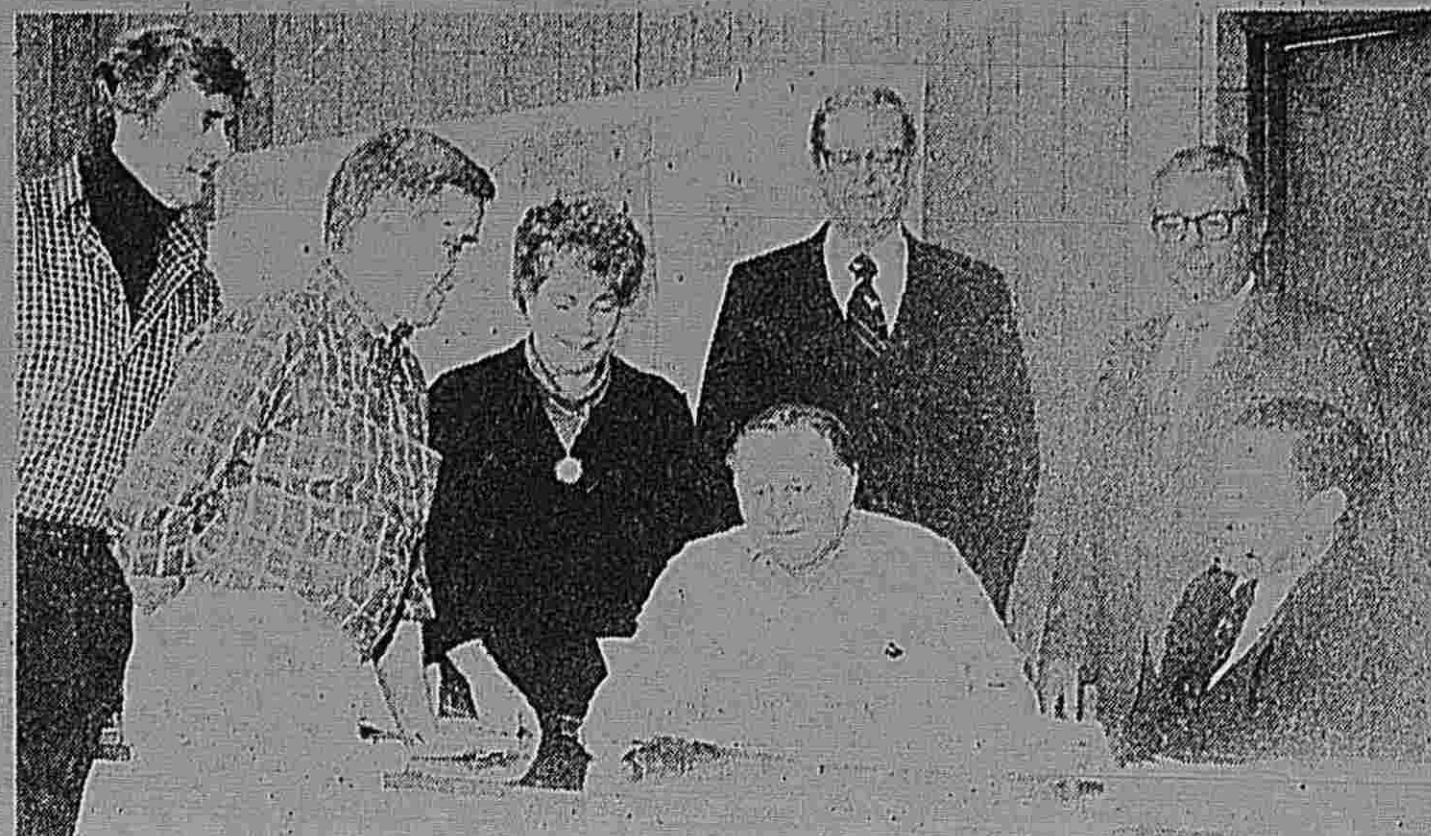

Phillip Leonardo, 25, Zion, was arrested at 2 p.m., as he was being released from the Lake County jail after serving a sentence for a battery charge.

Sydney Wright, 21, Zion, turned himself in to the Lake County Sheriff's Dept., at 4:45 p.m., on the same day, upon the request of the Antioch Police.

A thorough investigation led to the recovery of most of the $2,000 in property that had been stolen and sold to various buyers in Zion. The list included a video recorder, an Atari game and jewelry.

Leonardo was on parole after serving time for another burglary. He is being held in the Lake County jail in lieu of a $25,000 bond. The Antioch Police expect a parole violation charge to be forthcoming.

Wright was held overnight on the Antioch jail and released on a $5,000 signature bond. Preliminary hearings for the two will be scheduled within the next week, according to Antioch Police Lt. Tom Fiisher.

Guides Peggy Learmont and Pat Sterling escorted Chairman Kim Martin to the altar where the senior regent presented her with a baby spoon in honor of her new daughter, Emily Ann.

Ritual Director Judy Page gave her "report card" on the floor work in preparation for Chapter Rally Day. Everyone should make the last ritual practice on Thursday, Feb. 23 without fail. Any co-worker who has donations for the Chapter Rally Day fund raising should bring them to the next chapter meeting.

The best things in life are free, or are they?

by GLORIA DAVIS

Newspaper reporters have to refuse the constant offers of free lunches and dinners they are bombarded with, not only because they don't have time for all these lovely things, but in unadulterated fear of a glut-tony-caused demise.

These offers aren't really free because their price is really newspaper coverage, so that old adage of "There's no free lunch," still goes or does it?

No matter how deeply we are imbued with the fact of life that "you don't get something for nothing," a base part of all of us is always looking for a raffle win or that unbelievable sale, ergo the success of con games, lotteries, Las Vegas and the Arlington Race Track etc.

Can you really believe in Santa's non-existence when people in Canada walk away with $11 million, tax free, after buying a single lottery ticket?

The latest "winning" craze is flowing hot and heavy through the hands of the U. S. Post Office, all imitations of the Reader's Digest Sweepstakes.

Within the last month, I have personally received 25 communiques offering me the chance to win thousands in cash and gifts, most probably completely legitimate, or at least walking legalities' tight rope border, knowing Uncle Sam's scrutiny of this type of operation.

Now of course the law says that no purchase can be made a necessity in a sweep-stake's offering.

But do you get the feeling that those entries that are not attached to the "by the way" purchase" are somehow put in a separate pile?

And has anyone ever met Mrs. L. K. from Kookamunga, Cal.?

Once my son wanted to allow one million people to be involved in making "a poor boy into a millionaire" by simply donating one dollar apiece to that worthy cause.

Of course he was never allowed to implement this brainstorm, but with this sudden influx of prize-giving mail, he's been giving me those, "It's your fault I'm still a working stiff," looks.

The legitimate offers are really big business, especially if they are done throughout a large regional area, much less nationwide.

Even figuring in the cost of the product, the prizes, the office, the mailing overhead, if just 10 percent of the household's in the U. S. took the bait, the legitimate ones can possibly gross $400 million dollars off of one deal.

Remember the legitimate ones are supposed to tell you immediately what prize you are eligible for.

I had a friend who bit on a monogrammed pen offer. He was told he was eligible for several prizes from a video recorder on down.

He purchased the pens, paying more than he usually would have for that type of thing. He received the pens and a huge box containing his prize, six Frisbees.

Again I'm not saying which or how many of these offers are legitimate. It would probably be impossible for the post office to keep track of all of them.

I do know that there is "free" money available to small businesses because I have a friend who has gotten some of it.

He read a small ad in a business magazine that said there was money available to further small businesses he tried for it and got $1,800 for his business.

The way this operation worked, members must pay $100 per year annual dues. This particular club has a list of 5,000 members, all paying $100 per year. This means the club has a definite present annual income of one-half of a million dollars.

Each month the club DOES give $10,000 out to the members accompanied by a letter which clearly states that this is not a loan and the recipient is not legally responsible for repayment.

But never having won at cards, or on the horses and once losing in a raffle where I bought 10 out of the 20 tickets that were sold, I guess I tend to look a gift horse square in the old oral cavity, -- yet, I am debating about that offer of a free plane ticket costing $400 for a purchase of $250.

If you see this trusting old bag hitchhiking between Denver and Los Angeles, you'll know that a free lunch might be possible, but free rides aren't.

If you think you can't do anything about your gas bill, we've got a hot tip for you.

One of the things we asked our customers, in our recent survey, was whether they thought it was really worthwhile spending money on measures to reduce their use of gas.

The answers we got indicated that there's a lot of uncertainty about the value of conservation measures.

So we're going to try to clear things up.

The fact is, if the cost of natural gas rises, your gas bill will probably increase, even if you do take steps to cut your use of gas.

But it will increase less than it would if you did nothing.

And the money you spend to conserve gas will actually return to you many times over in years to come, in the form of savings on your gas bills.

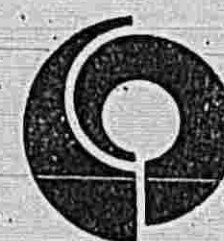

For example, if you need to replace your furnace, and spend an extra $600 on an energy efficient model rated at 82%, you could save 20% or more on your annual heating bill, or about $165 (based on the cost of heating a moderate sized home). In less than 4 years, you'll have saved enough to get back your $600. And every year after that, you'll be getting $165 more in savings for as long as you own your home.

There are several different energy efficient furnaces available from different manufacturers. They vary in both price and efficiency, so you can decide how much you want to spend . . . and save. There are also many other less expensive things you can do, some as simple as caulking or weather-stripping, that will also help reduce your use of gas.

The important thing to remember is, every dollar you spend to use less gas will come back to you, soon.

And after that, it's just money in the bank, year after year.

Sequoits dump Hawks for big conference win

The Antioch Sequoits got their basketball machine back on the tracks last week, scoring a 68-49 conference win over North Chicago.

Three Sequoits hit in double figures for the contest as Don Korjenek had 16, Dan Berkiel 14 and John Humphreys 16, to pace the attack.

North Chicago's 29 fouls spelled big trouble for the Hawks as Antioch picked up 32 of its points at the free-throw line and two Warhawks fouled out of the game.

Antioch jumped off to a 15-9 first quarter lead and led 29-24 at half. Antioch put the game out of reach in the third quarter, outscoring their opponent 22-10 to seal the victory.

The Sequoits will host Fenton, Friday, Feb. 17 and Zion-Benton Feb. 18 in two key conference games.

Cub Pack 80 has busy days

The boys of Cub Pack 80 have been busy with many activities thus far this year. The pack had their annual Christmas party in December which was enjoyed by all the scouts and their families. Santa Claus was there to pass out candy to all children. There were games, and of course lots of Christmas treats.

In January the boys attended the Snow Area at the Grass Lake School sledding hill. There was plenty of snow this year for this event and all the boys and parents enjoyed the sledding.

The boys have been working hard all year on their badge activities and have earned many badges. Bobcat badges were awarded to Jason Patterson, Victor Kluth, Mike Zyblut, Jason Paullus, John Mazzuca, David Komperda.

The Webelos recently participated in the district-wide Klondike Derby. This was a day long outdoor activity in which the boys entered a sled that they made during several of their meetings.

Many requirements for survival in the cold weather had to be met and they all did a great job in earning their Klondike Derby patch.

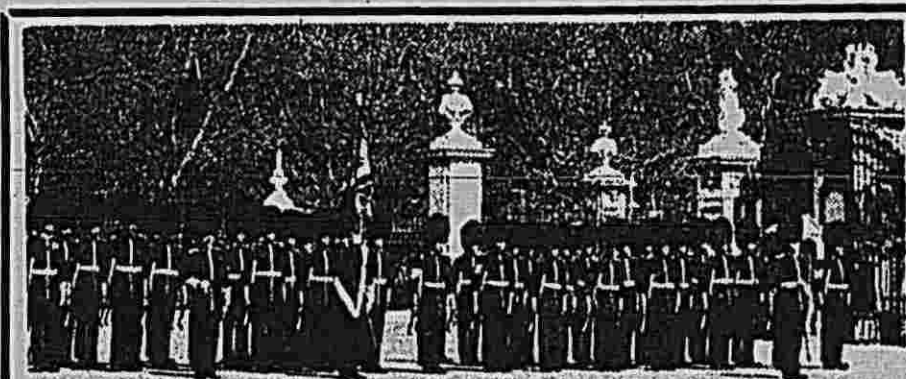

The Webelos also have been working on badges. The following boys have earned their Webelos badge: Jason Patterson, Jason Kitto, Adam Holtzinger, Scott Soltis, Harry Schugart.

The following boys have earned the outdoorsman, aquanaut, athlete, craftsman, and forester badges: Jason Kitto, Adam Holtzinger, Scott Soltis, Jason Patterson, and Harry Schugart. Jason Kitto also has citizen and artist.

The Cubs and Webelos of Pack 80 are working on their pinewood derby cars which will be raced at the Blue and Gold Dinner on Feb. 26.

The Blue and Gold Dinner is an annual event when awards are given and the boys and their families get together for this ceremony.
